

Robert G. McRae, MD, FACS

General Otolaryngologist

Education & Training

Undergraduate: Harvard University, Cambridge, MA, 1968-1972

Medical School: Tufts University School of Medicine, Boston, MA 1972-1976

Residency

Surgery: Rhode Island Hospital, Providence, RI 1976-1977

Otolaryngology: Yale University School of Medicine, New Haven CT 1977-1976

Hospital Privileges

Rhode Island Hospital, Honorary Status

Academic Appointments

Clinical Assistant Professor, Department of Surgery, Division of Otolaryngology, Brown University

Adjust Assistant Clinical Professor, Department of Otolaryngology, Tufts University School of Medicine, July 1, 2000 to present

Other Appointments

Fellow of American College of Surgeons

Past President of New England Otolaryngology Society

Board Certification

Rhode Island State Medical License, 1979 – present

American Board of Otolaryngology, September, 1980

American College of Surgeons, September, 1986

Awards & Recognition

1. Harvard University: A.B. Cum Laude: English Literature
2. Tufts University: Joseph F. Collins Scholarship
3. The Triologic Society: Recognition of Excellence; January, 1999
4. RI Monthly Magazine, 2002, 2004, 2006, 2008, 2010-2016: Top Doc's Award
5. Warren Alpert Medical School-Brown University: Dean of Excellence Award
6. Warren Alpert Medical School-Brown University: Faculty Service Recognition

Research & Publications

McRae Publications 1

McRae Publications 2

MicRae Publications 3

Personal

Dr. McRae enjoys traveling, playing the cello and playing golf.